

Simulation 101: Developing Excellence in Simulation-Based Education

Please complete the following application and submit it, along with your current CV or resume, to Ian Nazareno at Ian.Nazareno@utsouthwestern.edu

Name: _____ Date: _____

Email: _____ Phone: _____

Department: _____ ID#: _____

List the top three simulation activities you have been involved in as, a learner (L) or faculty (F), at UTSW. Write “None” if you have no simulation activity experience at UTSW.

Activity Name	Year	L or F
---------------	------	--------

Activity Name	Year	L or F
---------------	------	--------

Activity Name	Year	L or F
---------------	------	--------

List the top three simulation activities you have been involved in as, a learner (L) or faculty (F), outside of the UTSW system. Write “None” if you have no simulation activity experience outside of UTSW.

Activity Name	Year	L or F
---------------	------	--------

Activity Name	Year	L or F
---------------	------	--------

Activity Name	Year	L or F
---------------	------	--------

How do you envision using simulation here at UT Southwestern? Please limit your response to 500 characters (with spaces) or less.

Briefly describe a vision you have for a simulation activity you would like to create for your curriculum. Please limit your response to 500 words or less.

The course Simulation 101: Developing Excellence in Simulation-Based Education is a blended theory course consisting of participation in an online Journal Club, completion of asynchronous online modules (approximately 3-5 hours to complete) and two, in-person, full-day workshops, scheduled 10-14 days apart.

The Simulation Cornerstones of Best Practice course is a prerequisite for the Simulation 101: Developing Excellence in Simulation-Based Education course.

You may submit this application prior to completing the Sim Cornerstones course, but the asynchronous, online modules must be completed before the Day One workshop.

I recognize that the two full-day, in-person workshops will take time away from my normal duties. I am committed to participating fully and completing all required elements of the Simulation 101: Developing Excellence in Simulation-Based Education course.

In addition, my Division Chief, or supervisor fully supports my participation.

Applicant's Printed Name:

Applicant's Signature

Division Chief / Supervisor's printed name

Division Chief/Supervisor's Signature