Internship Program Admissions

Briefly describe in narrative form important information to assist potential applicants in assessing their likely fit with your program. This description must be consistent with the program's policies on intern selection and practicum and academic preparation requirements:

The UT Southwestern Clinical Psychology Internship Program is a two-year, half-time doctoral internship in professional psychology and is the exclusively affiliated internship of our doctoral program designed to train clinician-researchers. Our approach is based on a conceptualization of clinical psychology as fundamentally an applied field, with the overall goal of providing high quality training to prepare the intern for professional practice in clinical psychology. This program offers exposure to a variety of clinical/psychological settings, including agencies, hospitals, outpatient services, and emergency services. Practicum experience is broad in the doctoral program (over 1,400 hours), with the result that graduate interns come into the internship with considerable clinical training. The Internship Program is located at a major urban medical center in Dallas, Texas and provides interns with broad exposure to diverse patient populations, ethnic and cultural groups, and multidisciplinary approaches to patient care. The Internship Program takes place in the third and fourth year of the intern's doctoral study. The intern rotates through clinical rotations (typically two primary rotations, 12 months each) in UT Southwestern clinical facilities, community agencies, regional facilities and specialized agencies. Our Internship Program provides each intern with over 2,000 hours of hands-on, supervised clinical experience in a wide range of professional activities, including diagnostics and assessment, intervention, and consultation. Our interns are expected to develop skills in the basic areas of clinical psychology, but provisions are also made for interns to develop skills in more specialized areas of interest through their selection of clinical placements and supervisors. In addition, our interns are concurrently placed in research apprenticeships (typically clinical research settings) where they have opportunities to integrate clinical and research perspectives.

Does the program require that applicants have received a minimum number of hours of the following at time of application? If Yes, indicate how many:

Total Direct Contact Intervention Hours	NO		Amount: N/A
Total Direct Contact Assessment Hours	NO		Amount: N/A

Describe any other required minimum criteria used to screen applicants:

The UT Southwestern Internship Program is exclusively affiliated with our doctoral program with applicants applying to both the doctoral program and internship simultaneously. Applicants selected by the Admissions Committee to visit for an interview are able to meet with faculty and students, tour the campus, and are provided with presentations from faculty and students regarding the various training opportunities. During the admissions process applicants to the conjoint program and internship are carefully screened for interests, aptitudes, and academic preparation that are appropriate for both the Graduate Program's and Internship's goals and objectives. Ordinarily we admit 10 interns into the internship per year, who simultaneously are beginning their third year in our APA accredited doctoral program. Prior to entering the internship, all graduate students have completed approximately 1,400 hours of supervised practicum training in the doctoral program and must have achieved Satisfactory performance grades on three semesters of practicum. In addition, they must have passed the qualifying exam, and have maintained a B average in all coursework. If all requirements are met, at the beginning of the third year in the graduate program students are admitted to internship, and given the title, "psychology intern."
